ABOUT FACULTY DEVELOPMENT PROGRAMME

The objective of the programme is to up-grade the knowledge and skill of teachers employed in various disciplines of science with a special focus on material science, as it is the core of all engineering and science subjects. The FDP will cover common areas of interest to cater the need of faculty members across various disciplines. The academia, researchers and experts from industries will address topics related to the use of SEM, TEM., XRD, XPS, FTIR, UV-vis-nir, Raman, Optical Microscopes and DSC etc. and explore their findings on novel functional properties of materials. Deliberations on computational methods as molecular simulations, density functional theory and other emerging techniques will help faculty members to solve real problems in their respective fields. The FDP will focus on experimental, theoretical and simulation methods currently being widely used by leading scientists of the world. Many fold advancement in new experimental tools and technique is leading to exponential growth in various field of science. Computational techniques offer newer way of investigating a research problem and are capable of accurate and precise explanation for physical phenomena. These methods and technique give molecular scale insights, and can help one to predict new microscopic events. The amalgam of academia, scientists and researchers from central universities, NIITs & IITs and research organizations/ industries will give an opportunity to interact with them.
